Coleman Grands Win Alberta Hockey Title

The Coleman Grands won the Alberta Intermediate hockey championship at Stettler last weekend by edging out the Stettler Imperials 8-7 in a two-game total-goal series.

The Grands won the first game played in Bellevue, 6-3, while losing 4-2 to Stettler on Sunday.

In the second contest played at Stettler, on soft ice, the Coleman club was in command for two periods until the fighting Imperials fought fire to score three goals in the first 10 minutes of the third period.

With a difference of one goal between the two clubs the game featured some thrills for the packed house at Stettler.

The Coleman boys fought hard to hold their lead for the last 10 minutes and managed to keep the fired-up Imperials from scoring the tying marker.

"Singing Cop" Receives Award

Constable Hod Pharis of the Calgary police force, is also a famous song writer if the award he recently received is any indication of his ability.

Constable Pharis is a native son of the mountains, whose home was his father's ranch at the foot of the beautiful Livingstone range.

He started writing songs as a hobby and they are all written around mountain beauty and birds he loved. This hobby has been a lifelong one for "Hod", he is known.

He recently received a Caption of Achievement for 1957 presented by the Broadcast Music Institute, which read "In recognition of the great popularity attained by the Country and Western song leader "I Heard the Bluebird Sing".

He also has seven other compositions and songs recorded and sheet music published.

Hank Snow has recorded his "Call of the Mountain" on RCA Victor records which was recently released.

"I Heard the Bluebird Sing" has been recorded and made popular by James Edwards and Maxine and Bonny Bower—also on RCA records. He has a contract now with Spartan Records and several songs written which will be released on that label in the near future.

On his off duty hours Hod entertains in towns surrounding Calgary, also at the Crippled Children's Home and various other organizations. His wife, Mrs. Pharis (nee Audrey Hoisted) is a former Coleman girl.

Conservative Candidate Proposes Planning Board For Pass If Elected

Lawrence Kindt, the Progressive Conservative candidate in the federal election for the Macleod riding, stated at a recent meeting held in Blairmore that he would attempt to set up an industrial planning board if he was elected.

This would cover the Crows Nest Pass area. Mr. Kindt stated that the Crows Nest Pass has had all its eggs in one basket for too many years, by depending on the coal industry solely for its existence.

One of the first jobs of the proposed board would be to obtain a cross section of ideas for industry in the Pass. This board would be made up from all walks of life, so as to get the best in the interests of the Pass.

There is no reason why Pass coal could not be used in thermal power plants here the same as in Eastern Canada, stated Mr. Kindt.

Markets for Pass coal in Ontario and Japan are being thoroughly investigated. The increased substitution of $4.00 per ton on coal to Ontario had lowered the price there but Ontario buyers still preferred American coal, apparently because of the better quality, stated Mr. Kindt.

Ladies' Auxiliary Celebrate Birthday

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion celebrated their 23rd anniversary on Thursday, March 20 when a well-filled Legion club room of Legion and Auxiliary members sat down to a delicious supper served by the Ladies' Auxiliary members.

Auxiliary President R. Moore opened the ceremonies with a two-minute silence in honor of fallen comrades. "O Canada" was then sung by the assembly, accompanied by pianist I. Splevak. Mayor F. Abovansky said "Grace".

Following supper Mayor Abovansky addressed the gathering by extending congratulations to the ladies on their anniversary.

He stated that this was the first opportunity he'd had to express his appreciation of the work being done by the Auxiliary in the community. He stated that each person in an organization felt that his place could be very well filled by someone else, but it was up to each and every one of us to do his best to fill his own place and to try and make his existence worth while.

As the positions and populations got less and less there were more calls on the Auxiliary to try and fill in and do their best in the community, because what we live for was for service to others.

He concluded by wishing the Auxiliary all success in their future work and hoped we would all be around to celebrate another birthday.

Legion President N. Cytko then gave an address and was a great pleasure to be asked to attend. He hoped the Auxiliary would celebrate many more happy birthdays.

He took the opportunity to thank the Auxiliary on behalf of the officers and members of the Canadian Legion for the wonderful cooperation the ladies had given them in the past and hoped that the same work and co-operation would be given in the future.

Auxiliary President R. Moore extended a welcome to all present and hoped that she would be able to live up to all the praise given to the Auxiliary. She then called upon Past President J. Anderson and presented her with her Past President badge and thanked her for all the work she had done in the past year. Mrs. Anderson very ably thanked her for the badge.

Mrs. W. Ford, first vice-president of the Auxiliary, then presented Mrs. Moore with a lovely corsage and wished her and the Auxiliary the best of luck. She also stated she would be ready at all times to assist the president to the best of her ability.

Mrs. Moore then turned the proceedings over to Mrs. Cytko, who acted as master of ceremonies for the rest of the evening.

A program of entertainment followed with Mrs. I. Splevak acting as pianist for the singers.

Selections, which were greatly enjoyed, were given by Pipe Major J. Moore on the pipes.

The Ladies' Auxiliary presented a very military flag drill, with flags representing various countries being used. Those taking part in this were Madam J. Anderson, E. Rush, J. Kulg, R. Moore, G. Juhlin and A. Cytko.

These ladies also presented a very amusing skit "McNamara's Band" which brought a great deal

THE IMPORTANT CHOICE MONDAY

The setting for the federal election at the end of this month is almost complete. We have had many opportunities to hear and read the platforms of the various candidates and the parties they represent. Now, we have the responsibility of deciding which one we will support and then making sure that on Monday, March 31st, we go to the polls and vote for that choice.

Not long ago a prominent lawyer, who was disappointed with the choice his political party had made for a candidate, said that rather than support his party's candidate, he would not vote on election day. Obviously, if many Canadians held this attitude democracy would be a very frail vehicle. Devotion to political party must never be so firm that its followers cannot turn against it if they feel its choice of candidate or its choice of policy is wrong. The reason we believe in free elections is not because we must stand by a particular party through thick and thin, but rather so we can vote for the party and individual we think is best equipped to govern our nation.

Today, across Canada, some 800 contestants are busy wooing some nine million voters in 265 constituencies. From region to region the course of the election is following different issues, but generally speaking Canadians appear to be very interested in what their candidates are doing and saying. If the general interest holds until election day, it seems likely that from 70 to 80 per cent of the eligible voters will register their opinion on March 31.

In turn this means that from 20 to 30 per cent of the voters of the nation will fail to vote on election day. In many constituencies this group of voters would be more than enough to change the outcome of the election if they had voted.

This group of citizens fail to recognize their responsibility in our society. They fail to see that their opinion is mighty important in the final tabulation of the vote. History will show that had these people exercised their democratic right the course of national determination might have taken a completely different road.

And so it is apparent that each individual vote in our society is important. Each of us has a duty to perform on March 31, and that is to make a choice, and then register that conviction so that our political leaders know with certainty the opinion of the Canadian people.

Our duty next Monday is clear. Vote as you please, but please vote. —C.I.M. servative candidates during the Prime Minister's visit to Calgary recently. Each of the eight members from Southern Alberta present including Dr. Lawrence Kindt (shown) conferred individually with Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Dr. Kindt is Progressive Conservative candidate for Macleod riding.

OUR ELECTION OFFICERS

Canadians can for the most part be very proud of the men and women who run the nation's election machinery. One of the fellows who gets least attention during the election campaign is the local returning officer, and yet he is one of the most important cogs in our democratic election machinery.

The returning officer for each of the constituencies across Canada is appointed by the party in power. He holds his position as long as he performs his duties efficiently, or until he resigns. It is interesting to note during this election that a large number of our returning officers were appointed by the former Liberal government, and they have held on to their jobs under the present Progressive Conservative administration.

The secret of a good returning officer is, of course, that he divorce himself entirely from all political parties once he is appointed to his position. He must attempt to be absolutely impartial. He must enforce the provisions of the Election Act to the very best of his ability. It sets forth his duties, his powers and his obligations.

In new democracies where self-government is being attempted for the first time, one of the great problems faced is the honesty of election officers. Traditions of fair play have not been built and too often the men and women of new nations are not familiar with the responsibilities they owe if democracy is to be successful. We in Canada can be proud, for the most part, of our election officers. They are aware of the great responsibility that is theirs and they usually perform their task for the benefit of the nation and not for the benefit of the political party that appointed them.

And so when you go to cast your ballot in the coming election you can be pretty sure that you are taking part in an honest election. You can be pretty sure that your vote is going to be counted the way intended that it should be registered. In short, you know that your vote is a mighty important part of the total election picture. Without your vote the nation cannot expect to have good government. Thanks to the honest work of our election officials you can be certain that democracy is working efficiently for both you and Canada. —C.I.M.

What Red Cross Means To You

We can't all be popular heroes. There was only one Florence Nightingale ... one Henri Dunant to start the Red Cross ... one General Ryerson to fly the first Red Cross flag in Canada.

No, we won't all have our names in the pages of history.

But what we can do is be a hero, each in his own way.

Joe Smith is a day laborer ... but his $1 to the Red Cross is a sacrifice to him and due credit must be given.

John Brown is a small business owner ... and his $10 to the Red Cross means a big gift on his part.

Heroes in their own way.

These men ... two among millions in Canada ... are the kind of men that make Red Cross what it is ... a pulsating movement of goodness activated by the ordinary people in Canada ... each one doing his best, giving the most he can afford at a personal sacrifice. "Do you know?" that's what is so wonderful about Red Cross. So many people united in a common movement and in a common thought of doing good to someone less fortunate. In Red Cross the financier with his gift of thousands and the widow with her mite are all doing the same job regardless of race, color and creed.

The common purpose and the common cause of Red Cross supported by its friends in every walk of life ... binds them together in a mutual friendship and understanding. The donation YOU give to Red Cross does so much for you ... and so much for the less fortunate.

Give generously won't you?

A bright sun can make a frozen stream or pond a death-trap for youngsters. Your Canadian Red Cross asks you to warn your children of the dangers that lurk around water at this time of year.

To Love God

"You must love God." I was told as a boy, both at church and at home.

Now a boy is an independent creature. You can make him mow lawns, chop wood and empty the ashes; but you can't make him love God by ordering him.

And one day I rebelled.

"Now, Dad," I said, "that's nuts. I can't just get up in the morning and suddenly love God. You can't make yourself love anybody. You do or you don't — and that's it."

For these rebellious words I experienced a fatherly blast.

It didn't come.

My Dad frowned, pulled at his mustache, shook his head. Then, with a sigh, he said "I know."

That was all he said, at that moment and I was surprised and strangely disappointed.

But my Dad was a smart man, and he handled my outburst in the best possible way, with that sigh and that acceptance of the fact. He left me free to think about the love of God as a problem of my own.

It took me a long, long time to solve it, too. But there has always been in the human heart a hunger for support, and even a cocky young fellow knows that he is young, not old, powerful enough to push the universe around. Or he soon learns to know it, and to realize that like all the rest of mankind he is a child of providence.

Some of us are dull enough to fight against this knowledge far too long, trying in vain to make the universe spin our particular way. Others, blessed with more wisdom and humility, accept the fact that there is a power greater than themselves, a power always available to them even when all other sources of inspiration fail.

There are the men and women who face adversity with courage, who know the joy of optimism and hope, who understand that they never really need to stand alone.

They are untouched by the panic that bothers others at every twist and turn of events. They have a serenity, a steadiness, a sense of destiny in which they have transcended faith. They enter the universe humbly, they leave it majestically, unafraid and peaceful.

Those who lack this faith in God try desperately to remake the world in their own image, shaping it to their own heart's desire. Often they mean well. If their eyes were opened to the harm they do, they would be shocked and repentant.

They are the do-gooders who in their innocent egotism would play God, instead of loving Him.

No one can force us to love God. Good parents and a relentless universe can teach us.

Since 1946 1,500,000 people have been added to Ontario's population.

WILL NEVER MERIT CONFIDENCE

The Japanese market has not been opened by the conservative government. Kindt is wrong when he says so. Hansell has been working on this for a long time. Even the Liberals were trying to get this market.

THE FACTS ARE:

- 1. The quality must compare favorably with competitive coal from Australia, Viet Nam, China, India, U. S., etc.
- 2. Price must also be comparable. Latest reports are that Alberta coal laid down in Japan would be about $17.00 compared to $12.60 to $14.28 from other countries.
- 3. There are no loading facilities as yet in Vancouver. A company has been organized but the Conservative Govt. has refused to back them financially.

PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT GRANTS

COUNTIES AND MUNICIPAL DISTRICTS

Alberta's counties and municipal districts must provide services for residents. Money to provide these services is derived mainly from two sources — municipal taxes and Provincial Government Grants.

In 1956 the municipal levy in counties and municipal districts was $24,282,630.37 which, added to the Provincial Government Grant of $27,205,533.37 equalled a total of $51,488,164.23.

Provincial Government municipal grants are paid directly to the counties and municipal districts concerned.

School Grants are paid directly to the School Districts and Divisions and Hospital Grants are paid to hospital authorities.

Letter to the Editor

March 15, 1958.

Editor,
The Coleman Journal,
Coleman, Alberta.
Dear Sir:

It seems to me the Coal Industry in Western Canada has reached, or is fast approaching a stalemate.

I am particularly concerned about the people in the 45 to 65 age group, for whom it is very difficult to move away from their homes into other employment.

There may be a revitalized Coal Industry in the future, but it seems it will be too late to help us now.

Therefore I would support the idea of subsidizing New Industry in areas such as the Pass.

I have brought this problem to the attention of Mr. Pearson, and I believe if he heads the next Government will give this difficult problem permanent or the official opposition, his immediate attention.

A friend of the Pass.

JIM DERRICK.

Association Meeting In Blairmore

BLAIRMORE -- The Crows Nest Pass Ministerial Association met in Blairmore United Church on Monday, March 17 at 2:30 p.m. with Rev. Rod MacCulay presiding.

There were members present from Pincher Creek, Natal, Coleman and Blairmore.

Rev. R. G. Thompson conducted the opening worship using the part of the sermon on the mount which deals with prayer, and quoting from a recent book by John B. Magee called "Reality and Prayer".

By a strange coincidence the prepared message as arranged by Miss F. M. Hodgins was also on Prayer, as treated by Dr. Frank C. Laubach.

Both agreed that despite great advances in medical science, prayer is still one of the most effective agencies in healings, always to be used in combination with the known healing techniques, and always used with the recognition that God may answer prayer with "No" as well as "Yes".

Dr. Laubach recognized a great need to invoke God's help in healing our denominational differences and our international tensions.

It was resolved to carry in local newspapers some pre-Easter ads calling the attention of our people to the strategic value of the Easter season in the church year.

Ministers' wives participated in the social hour which was held in the manse following the business period.

Next meeting will be in the Pincher Creek United Church, April 21st, with Rev. Gilbert Johnson of Fernie contributing the study theme.

Your unemployment column

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment, together with answers received from the Unemployment Insurance Commission:

Q — I am not able to do my usual type of work and will be laid off at the end of the month. I would like to take a course in typing. Would I be able to draw benefits while taking the course?

A — Without knowing the reason for not being able to do your usual type of work, it is not possible to give a specific answer to your question. Generally, however, benefit is not paid to a claimant.

Q — Is a married woman entitled to unemployment benefit if she quits her work?

A — Payment of benefit to a married woman who quits her job would depend on the reason for quitting. If she left voluntarily without just cause she may be disqualified for a period up to six weeks.

If she left voluntarily because of pregnancy she would be disqualified until six weeks after confinement. The special regulations that applied to women who became claimants in the first two years after marriage were revoked effective November 17, 1957.

Q — The firm which employs me is closing down. Because my salary has been over the ceiling I have not been paying unemployment insurance for the past two years, although I have been employed for 10 years. Do I have to pay 30 contribution weeks in the last 104 weeks with eight in the last 52 weeks in order to draw unemployment insurance benefits?

A — If you ceased paying contributions less than two years prior to the date on which you file your claim, you might be entitled to what is known as an extension of the qualifying period. This means that the two-year period in which you must have at least 30 contribution weeks would be extended by the period during which you made no contributions. Thus, the two-year period becomes four years and the one-year period becomes three years.

Q — My son, who is 16 years of age, had a job for some time but lost it. He is now drawing unemployment insurance. He collects the money at the office but does not bring any of it home. He won't pay his board or there anything that can be done to keep this money from him?

A — You should consult the manager of the local office at which your son is paid. If he is satisfied that the boy is not meeting his obligations to you, the manager may arrange for payment to be made by cheque to your son at his home address.

Try this honey butter

For snack time home economists suggest homemakers whip up a batch of fluffy honey butter to serve with bread, muffins, rolls and tea biscuits.

Use it, too, in dairy sandwiches and for a really pretty rolled sandwich mix the honey butter with a few chopped raisins or dates.

The recipe for honey butter calls for half cup butter, three-quarters to 1 cup of white crystallized honey. Cream butter. Gradually stir in honey.

Career Night Coleman School

Doctor, lawyer or mounted police, mirror, mirror on the wall, who shall I be?

Youth from the Crows Nest Pass had many careers to choose from on Tuesday night March 18 at the Coleman school.

Over 250 people filled the school to hear the various speakers discuss the different fields our youth could choose from for their future vocations.

Classrooms were so filled that many students had to be turned away until the next session.

A question period was held after each class and from the number of questions asked the boys and girls showed that they were really interested in the speaker's subjects.

Following is the program that took place:

DIEFENBAKER CANDIDATE

Canada needs the Diefenbaker Government returned to power, and the Macleod Constituency needs a man in Ottawa on the side of the government where he can speak and work for you with the party in power - and do it better than any man who is in opposition with the Ottawa government.

The Crowsnest Pass has particular problems and they're a lot different from plowing a field, harvesting a crop, or preaching a sermon. You need an Industrial Economist - LAWRENCE E. KINDT.
